

WALLER COUNTY APPRAISAL DISTRICT

AGRICULTURAL ALERT

It has been brought to the attention of the Waller County Appraisal District that many property owners are concerned about the possibility of losing their agricultural special use valuation. The district is aware of the extreme drought conditions and the effect it is having on the agricultural community. The appraisal district wants to assure the property owners that they will not lose their agricultural valuation due to the drought. The district understands the possibility of no agricultural production on the property and the possible liquidation of livestock.

When the district asks you to refile, the Waller County Appraisal District will take into consideration the extreme conditions of 2011.
